Great news comes from Italy, as Tankoa Yachts deliver their brand new superyacht Vertige and release the first running images of the yacht cruising the waters of Portofino. Motor yacht Vertige was designed by Francesco Paszkowski, with naval architecture by Massimo Visibelli. More exciting news is that this 50m Italian superyacht has joined the global fleet of charter yachts and will be available this summer in the Western Mediterranean.

Francesco Paszkowski created the elegant and smooth design of the yacht, which makes her stand out from the line of the yachts of the same size. She boasts three large decks and opulent living spaces, designed with the intention of creating close to the sea cruising experience. Vertige offers an ample main deck salon with a lounge and a formal dining. The upper deck has an airy sky lounge and a bridge forward.

“The Tankoa S501 Vertige is the result of a coordinated effort between the yard, the owner and our studio”, commented the yacht’s designer Francesco Paszkowski. “We understood each other, perfectly, right from the start of this project which was characterised by in-depth material and design element research and the excellent craftsmanship in the yard. This also included, for the first time on a Tankoa, a plumb bow, giving an indication of the yard’s future direction.”

Lavish accommodation is offered in the following layout: the full-beam master cabin, VIP suite and four guest cabins. A total of 12 charter guests will be taken care of by ten professional crew members.

One of the special features of Vertige is her fold-out balconies in the master cabins and on the aft deck. The interior spaces are bright and lit with plenty of natural light, thanks to the floor-to-ceiling windows. Margherita Casprini, a famous superyacht interior designer, worked on the interior decor, which is best described as contemporary with warm colours.
